Laws Whiskey House is a grain-to-glass distillery in Denver, Colorado that applies a “there are no shortcuts” philosophy to each batch of whiskey produced. Each batch of bonded bourbon is milled, cooked, fermented, distilled, and aged on-site, utilizing heirloom grains from family-owned Colorado farms. The practice of open air, on-grain fermentation captures the essence of Colorado’s terroir while the copper pot-column still produces a robust, grain-forward style of whiskey that is aged in 53 gallon charred oak barrels for a minimum of six years.

- ◆ Tasting Notes: Sweet and rich on the nose with aromas of orange blossom, toffee, and apricot jam. Black tea, orange, brown butter, and dates on the palate. Notes of sandalwood round out a dry and lingering finish.
- ◆ Mash Bill: 60% corn, 20% heirloom wheat, 10% heirloom rye, 10% heirloom malted barley
- ◆ Aged over eight years in new, 53 gal, charred oak barrels
- ◆ First Bottled in Bond bourbon in Colorado history.

Meets the standards of the Bottled in Bond Act of 1897. Bottled in Bond requires that the whiskey be a product of a single season, using the grain of a single season, made by one distiller at a single distillery, and aged at least four years in a federal government-bonded warehouse. The whiskey is then cut and bottled at 100 proof (50% ABV).
